TERRIBLE STEAMBOAT DISASTER-STEAMER LEXINGTON BLOWN UP .- Our city was thrown into a state of excitement on Saturday evening shore, and the prompt assistance of the steamer by intelligence that the steamer Lexington, from D. A. Given, many lives were saved. Great St. Louis to this port, had blown up about 4 praise is due to Capt. Wood and the other offio'clock in the morning, near Flint Island, and cers of the Given, for their unceasing attention that most of her passengers had been killed ei- to the wounded and dying, and also to Drs. Robhad taken fire and burned to the water's edge believed that not less than 25 lives were lost. ceived by the steamer J. C. Fremont, which had ascertained a few of the wounded passengers and crew on board. Yesterday morning the steamer D. A. Given arrived with a number of the crew and passengers. Many had returned to St. Louis from the place of disaster.

The Lexington, Capt. Throop, left St. Louis on Wednesday evening for this port. On Saturday morning before daylight she passed the D. A. Given near Stephensport where the latter landed. Capt. Wood noticed that the Lexington was running very slow, and was under the impression that something was not right. The D. A. Given is a stern-whe ler and there was no competition between the boats. as the Lexington had sidewheels and was much larger and had probably double as much pow r as the Given. We state this from the fact of the boats being close together, as some might infer that they were racing. When about four miles above Stephensport, the Lexington exploded all her boilers, the explosion carrying with it the whole cabin forward of the wheel-houses and the texas. Most of the passengers were asleep at the time in their berths, and also the officers and crew except those detailed on watch. All on the forward part of the boat were blown up with the cabin, some falling in the river, and others on the wreck. Many were so seriously hurt, as to be altogether unconscious, and they do not know how they were saved, while others managed by catching pieces of planks and fenders were enabled to get ashore. Capt. Throop fell from the harricane deck, but was caught by the second mate standing of the forecast, offere he reached the deck. otherwise he would have been killed instantly. This mate, though immediately forward of the boilers, sustained no injury. The clerk found himself in the river with his desk close beside him. But we cannot relate all the hair-breadth escapes of individuals. Not a soul in the cabin back of the wheel-houses was injured. But few of the deck pa-sengers were wounded. Immediately after the explosion the boat took fire, but the ready assistance rendered by the D. A. Given, which was only half a mile off, and by persons from the shore with flatboats and skiffs, saved the lives of most of the passengers. Some little baggage was saved, but very many escaped with nothing but their night clothes.

The D. A. Given then took most of the passengers back to Stephensport to procure medical

After the D. A. Given had left, the J. C. Fremont came along and took on board several of the wounded and others. The Fremont reached here on Saturday night. Mr. J. R. Hall of Liberty, Mo.. was among them. He sustained very serious injuries and lost a large amount of money. He was taken to the house of a friend n this city. Mr. Ottinger. Mr. John Barnard of this city and W. C. Harkins of Madison were also seriously wounded, but not dangerously. Among the wounded on the D. A. Given was Capt. Thes. White, of this city, and he is in a dangerons condition. Mr. Badger, one of the pilots of the Lexington, who was asleep when the explosion occurred, it is feared will not survive. He was taken care of somewhere in the city. Mr. W. W. Johnston of Madison, was also staffering savereij. He was taken home on the Jacob Strader yesterday morning. None of the ladies and children were hurt.

It it is somewhat strange that but very few persons were scalded. The wounded are suffering from bruises, contusions, and broken limbs.

The boat was rum.ing when the explosion occurred, and from this it is generally inferred that there could have been little if any water in the boilers. The second engineer, who was on watch, wa: killed.

The passengers speak in the highest terms of Capt. Wood, of the D. A. Given, his officers, and crew. They did everything to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunate passengers. Capt. W. distributed among them all the clothes he could possibly spare. The physicians of Stephensport and Dr. Hawn of Concorpia were unremitting in their attentions to the wounded. The officers of the Fremont are also highly spoden of by those who came up on her.

The hull of the boat floated down to Stephensport where it was caught and moored.

The Lexington did not belong to the St. Louis company. She was an old boat, and the steam. for our commerce.

All the books and papers having been lost, it was impossible to ascertain the precise number of persons lost. Several passengers, however, took the matter in hand, and made up a list as complete as could be got. To Mr. Sandford Duncan, who has lately become a citizen of Louisville, we are indebted for the following:

The steamer Lexington, Capt. Throop, bound from Louisville to St. Louis, with about eighty souls on board and 250 bales of hemp, was wrecked by explosion of her boilers on Saturday at 31 o'clock, when about four miles from Rome. A few minutes after the explosion the wreck took fire and burned rapidly to the water's edge. By the aid of a woodboat from ther by the explosion or by being drowned, and inson and Jones of Rome, who came on board some bad probably perished in the flames, as she and remained the greater part of the day. TORNADO AT EVANSVILLE .- On Saturday last, Evansville was visited by a terrible s of wind, rain, and hail, blowing down two large new brick stores, nearly finished, on Main street, belonging to N. Rinley, Esq., crushing in their fall the three story store adjoining, occupied by D. C. Keller, wholesale druggist, burying in one common mass the building and its contents; also a two story building, adjoining Mr. Keller's on the northeast, occupied by Ahlering & Brummer as a clothing store, destroying the building and injuring the stock, which was large. The stores of Babcock Bros, wholesale hardware and groceries, R. Barne's, dry goods store, and Gumbert's three-story brick, on Water street. and S. E. Gilbert, grocery on Sycamore street, lost the roofs. The new four-story brick highschool building, which was nearly ready for the roof, suffered so severely that it is feared it will have to be taken down to the foundation. Many other buildings were more or less injured, and trees blown down throughout the city.

There were two men at work in the third story of Rinley's building when it fell. They were taken out of the rains alive and it is thought that one or both may recover.

INTERESTING STATISTICS .- The following are the imports of coffee, molasses, and sugar from September 1st, 1854, to July 1st, 1555. We obtained these statements from the books of the Louisville Chamber of Commerce:

Imports from the 1st of January, 1854, to the 1st of July, 1854, and same period for 1855: Molasses, bbls.... Sugar, hhds...... Sugar, bbls...... Sugar, boxes 5,418

The striking feature in this statement is that from the 1st of September last to the 1st of January (four months) only 262 bbls. molasses packet line. She formerly belonged to this port, and 803 hhds. sugar were received. It plainly but was sold a few months ago to a St. Louis shows how much we are indebted to the river

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] THE SISTERS' MEETING.

BY MRS. ANNA MARIA FERGUSON.

"Shall ye not meet again? So let us trust
That meet for moments but to part for years,
That weep, watch, pray se hold back dust from dust,
That love where love is but a fount of tears." They met not as earth's bright ones meet,
The sisters parted long,
With hearts light bounding as their fact—
Though such to youth belong:

Not as they parted in the pride Of beauty long ago— Their steps upon life's green hill-side— They met again, ah no.

Not where young creatures guileless mirth By household fires ring loud, Nor where met lighter hearts of earth
Amid the world's gay crowd—
But where a solemn couch around
Were gathered ones in prayer,
While death life's mystic chords nnbound, They met, the parted, there.

Yet still upon the well known face, Through pain and sickness by Above its sufferings' every trace The olden smile was worn. And still the pallid lips essayed Her soul's sad thoughts to speak, Till mournful words and low were breathed In acceuts wild and weak.

Oh sister, how my soul hath pined On sister, how my sopl hath pined To look once me re on thee—Is t'ar within this bot an shrin'd That whaspered may not be; How lived I in those hours of night The yearning and the vain, That gave one instant to my sight Thy lips' glad smile again.

And now thou art beside me here, Thy hand is clasped in mine, Thine eyes the truthful and the clear In saduess on me shine;
And to mine folded close the breast
Thine own true heart above,
A little while there let me rest— God bless thoe for thy love.

What tears within those violet eyes, So like our father's own, No other light beneath the skies For us like theirs hath shone; Ah, cold the stranger's glances feli Where it was wont to shlue I go beueath its rays to dwell—
Theu why should'st thou repine?

I go, for they have left us long To manhood proud and high. That grew the stately and the strong Beneath our mother's eye; Another race their places crowd
Than that our name that bore—
The name of which our sires were proud,
'Tis whispered there uo more.

Oh, since we crossed the blue sea lone Our island home that swept,
What grief that wayward band hath kuowa,
What barning tears we've wept;
How soon where waves the yew-tree pine
Within the church-yard's shade, We laid them, dearest, thene and mine, Where I shall soon be laid.

Yet all to much thy voice brings back Of childhood's blessed day,
Of fountains by whose sun-bright track
We've wandered in our play, Of tall trees waving in the light, Of hawthorns in the glen, And the blue heavens above them bright That uearer earth seemed then.

For link'd with memory of each spot My fainting heartstlat thrills, The blue waves wandering by our cot Low nestled 'neath the hills, The legends of our own fair land, By its own hearth-light told, With straius that nerved our father's hand To warlike deeds of old,

Art thon whose step mine own beside Was first in bower and hall, Of those their boasted flower and pride, The one most loved of all-Art then mine all of youth that hast lts young pure hear! und free, And therefore in this hour, my last, Doth yield them back to me.

Yet when thy girlish heart to heaven First gave its virgin vow,
What chords withlu our souls were riven,
1 will not weep them now;
But then as earthly love had weed And won thee from my side, The very heaven itself I vlewed That claimed thee for its bride.

But now 1 yield thy spouse divine That in thy heart his living shrine Still place for me is made— Still place, I wander, let me sleep, Aye thus, I've wished it so, Thy love hath nerved me, do not wee;, We'll meet again-1 go.

And faded from her eye the light, And from her lip the hue— But on the waxen face and white The smile immortal grew; Oh there was joy in heaven that day, On earth if serrow's tear, For hearts went with her all the way, That else had lingered here. LOUISVILLE, May.

ATTEMPTED OTTRAGE .- Frank Kean, a lad about seventeen years of age, residen of Boston, Jefferson co., Ky., was arrested on Tuesday last by officer J. T. Conn, on a charge of having attempted to commit an outrage upon the person of a little girl about eight years old. He was placed under guard while officer Conn went after another magistrate (there being one present), but before he arrived with the magistrate, Kean succeeded in making his escape and has not been seen or heard of since.

For the Louisville Bulletin. ! HENRY FEMALE COLLEGE, NEWCASTLE, KY.

The fourth annual commencement of this Institution occurred on Thursday, June 28th. We never before had the pleasure of a visit to this quiet and beautiful village, or of sharing the true Kentucky hospitality of its mhaoitants, or of enjoying its literary festivities; but the happiness which we experienced in this, our first visit to Henry Female College, the hearty cordiality with which we were welcomed, and the interesting exercises of commencement day, we shall over cherish in our casket of pleasing memories.

The graduates, seven in number, though somewhat younger than those of former years, evinced a native talent and thorough mental discipline not unworthy of more mature intellects and riper scholarship. After the aldresses and essays by the young ladies, Mr. C. M. Mathews, Esq., one of the trustees, conferred the diplomas and addressed the class in an eloquent speech, dignified in tone, rich in advice, and la-conic in thought and diction. This was followed by a few remarks from the principal, Rev. S. S. Summer, who spoke with that fervid eloquence which glows in the words of a kind father when taking leave of an only daughter, the dear object of his solicitude and affection.

Among the many interesting exercises of the occasion was the poem of Mr. J. E. Spencer. The audience testified their appreciation of the vein of true poetry and genuine wit with which his production abounded, by their breathless a tention interspersed with frequent applause.
The annual oration by Rev. J. H. Heywood, of Louisville, was one of real merit, comprehensive in its views, vigorous in thought, impressive in delivery. We often heard it spoken of by those who listened to it and always in terms of high commendation.

The music, which was appropriate and well performed by the young ladies of the college, was conducted by Prof. Shelling.

We congratulate the citizens of Newcastle and vicinity that they can boast of an institution of the first rank, at once the pride and greatest or nament of their village, and that they have in their midst and at the head of this institution man of sterling worth, whose untiring devotion to the cause of female education, whose nobility purpose and indomitable perseverance, have won for him an enviable reputation, and which having placed Henry Female College in its present high position, must and will secure for it that warm sympathy and liberal patronage which the citizens of our State are so ready to bestow on an enterprising man and an enterprise of STEAMBOAT JACOB STRADER. - We have heard that several cases of cholera occurred on the upward trip of this elegant passenger boat, and thought it necessary to make some inquiry its truth; by which means we have learned from a physician, who was on board when Mrs Green, Mrs. Dent, and Mrs. Taylor died, that it was from the effects of something they eat. Perhaps pastry or desert, and resembled poison more than cholera. They had come up as passengers on the steamer Baltimore from St. Louis. On further inquiry we learn from Mr. John Raine, proprietor of the Galt House, that a case of a similar disease occurred in the city. A Mr. Burks died from the effects of some thing he eat also on board the Baltimore. There thing he eat also on board the Baltimore. There is also another passenger of the Baltimore's, a lady named Mrs. Saunders, lying very ill at the Galt House from exactly the same cause. Her physicians gave her up last night. These are strange occurrences, yet we feel it our duty to say that we have not heard of a single case of the balas in this city. Cincipation cholera in this city, Cincinnati, or on any of the boats plying between the two ports.

In giving the above statement, we do not mean to convey the idea that there is sickness on the Baltimore or any of the St. Louis boats. Such occurrences as being poisoned by eating pies are not new to those who have read the daily papers. They have occurred of late in many parts of the Union. There must be some article in market from which pastry is made that is poi-

MONDAY EVENING, JULY 2, 1855.

THE BROOKLYN SUICIDES .- The telegraph mentioned a few days ago the deaths by suicide of a young man named Horatio N. Gustin and a woman named Sarah Williams on the porch of his father's house. The man had recently returned from Iowa, where he had been residing for two years, but had been acquainted with the woman for some time, who, from the testimony elicited before the coroner's jury, was a prostitute. The body of the female was sent to the dead-house by the father of Gustin. This caused much excitement. We let the Journal of Commerce tell the remainder:

Morbid Sympathy.—A young man and woman were found dead by the mother of the former, early in the morning of Wednesday last, on a settee in the open balcony of the house occupied by the young man's parents. The girl was un-known to the inmates of the house; but letters found on the person of the man rendered it prob-able that she was of bad character, that he was nown to her by an assumed name, and that their relations to each other had been of an immoral nature. The father of the young man, who probably was confirmed in the view of the matthe which these facts present, by a knowledge of his son's habits, caused the body of the girl to be removed to the dead house, and made the requisite preparations for his son's funeral.

There seems nothing in this state of facts to justify censorious comment, much less to authorize a manifestation of public displeasure to thorize a manifestation of public displeasure to be visited upon the father and his unoffending family, burdened already with a heavy sorrow, by the loss of a son under circumstances cal-culated very much to aggravate the affliction. But the people of Brooklyn, living in the neighborhood of the scene of this deplorable event, thought otherwise. The sentiment was suits required to the senting the quite publicly bruited, that the sending the girl's body to the dead house, to be first exposed for recognition, and if not claimed, to be thence buried, as the law provides in case of the dis-covery of an unknown corpse, was an unfeeling and barbarous act.

A respectable lady of the vicinity, wishing to show her opinion of the transaction, offered her house as a receptacle for the body till it should be respectfully interred; and a liberal offering was made by public contribution to de-fray the cost of the burial. The Rector of the Church of the Messiah tendered the use of his church, and his own ministerial services, for the purposes of the funeral. The publicity and ostentation with which these incidents were invested gave them more of a vindictive than a charitable aspect. But we might not have felt called upon to speak of them, if they had not been accompanied with proceedings still more offensive and personally annoying to the bereav-ed family, for whose affliction no one showed sympathy. While the dead body of an erring, but no doubt still beloved son, lay in their house, a public meeting was held to denounce them for not extending to the partner of his guilt, who possibly allured him to his destruction, the last offices of affection which they were preparing for him. Out of twenty fami-lies to whom application was made, no individ-ual could be persuaded to watch with his corpse. The popular indignation was even vented in the street; and so flagrant were the demonstrations in front of the house, that it became necessary to apply to the police to protect it from violence and its inmates from insult. A notice was posted on the gate, in mockery, stating that the young man would be buried from the Dead House; and as often as it was removed by the family it was replaced by the populace, till the latter were restrained by the police.

The funerals of the deceased took place yes The runerals of the deceased took place yesterday—the young man's from his father's house, the girl's from the church. At the same hour the inquest on the death of the girl was resumed by the coroner. The proceedings at the church, and the developments of the inquest, occurring simultaneously, offer for consideration a strong illustration of the injustice of precipitate condemnation and consure by a comcipitate condemnation and censure, by a community in a state of excitement consequent upon the discovery of a shocking event, and entirely ignorant of those circumstances of the trans-action without a full knowedge of which it is impossible to estimate its character, or the conduct of those who may chance to be associated with it. At the inquest it was proved by ample testimony that the woman was a prostitute, who had resided for five years, with occasional interoute in this city: at least two years, with this young man, the de-ceased, who, in the letter found upon his body, addressed to her, declared that - "rather than be an eve-witness to your life, I prefer death." While these disclosures were in progress in the jury-room, a very different scene was presented at the church. There, the no doubt worthy, but certainly misled rector, was pronouncing an eulogy, to an assembly chiefly of respectable laes, over the dead body of the girl. We find a report of it in the New York Tribune. If that report may be relied on, it was in no sense a sermon, adapted to enforce the sentence pronounced by Holy Writ upon transgres sors. He did not tell his hearers that "the wages of sin is death," and point to the poor victim of self-destruction at his feet as an illustration of that truth. He told them she was martyr to the passion of love," and invoked their sympathies in behalf of her and her friends, "overborne as she was by unalterable devotion to the partner of her guilt—I mean that guilt which consigned them both to eternity." He hastens to limit the purport of the word "guilt," to preclude an inference which could scarcely fail to be drawn from it, even by those who knew nothing of the developments of the inquest. But he is not content with this indirect testimony to the character of the person in whose behalf he invoked sympathy, as will be seen by the conclusion of his address, which we give in the words of the report:

"With regard to the poor unfortunate lying before us, I will express the opinion that her character was pure. From all that I can learn I do not doubt that t she was a virtuous woman. Let us then not cast reproach on her, or harbor in our minds that she was impure in heart. She has committed one great sin for which she cannot repent. Let us not attach to her another. Let us not cherish one single idea inimical to her good name. Let us hope against hope that God has extended to her soul salvation. Let us take heed that we too fall not into temptation. Lest we should be thought to do injustice by this quotation to the general character of the urse, we make one other extract, the only one we can find which purports to educe the moral of the transaction: improvements made on other public lands.

"Is there any man here who in some sense cannot honor such a martyr to the passion of love? Surely if we can secure compassion for her from the sterner sex, those of her own sex can appreciate the violence of a passion which could enable her to meet such an awful death without shrinking. But from this we should receive a lesson. Whenever we are about to who made us. And here is the fatal mistake into which these two young people fell. They permitted their love for each other to displace their love for their God." We know nothing of any of the parties asso-ciated with these transactions. But the injustice of a public demonstration to rebuke and annoy a private family for adopting a course, which, in the judgment of its head, to whom the decision in regard to it properly belonged, seemed justified and required by the circumstances of the case—circumstances which were certainly better known to him than to the public-impels us to present the matter in its true light, and to raise our voice in behalf of the unoff-nding and the persecuted. Now that the character and relations of the parties are disclosed, we are satisfied that there can be but one sentiment in respect to the events described, and that the "sober second thought," even of those who were most active in exciting the public indignation, must convict them of gross and culpable precipitation. The occurrence may well operate as a warning against yielding to the promptings of that hasty impulse, which, acting ignorantly, can only by chance do right. and almost always errs, often in the indiction of flagrant injustice and the perpetration of irremediable wrong.

[From the Baltimore Patriot, June 28.]

PROBABLE EARTHQUAKE .- The citizens of Baltimore, with but few exceptions, were start-led and aroused from their slumbers last night, or rather between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, by a singular rumbling noise and oscillatory It was, so far as we have been able to learn, ovement of the earth resembling an earthquake heard and felt in all parts of the city. Many, whom we have seen this morning, were startled from a sound sleep, almost instantaneously, in amazement. Persons rushed to their windows and doors, as if waking from an incoherent dream, scarcely able to realize what had startled them. The shock commenced at precisely half past twelve o'clock, as noted by a chronometer watch, not varying one minute from true time for ten months. It was preceded by a deep rumbling noise, a slight tremulousness of the earth, and this succeeded by two shocks; the third, and last, very severe; so much so, that houses were shaken to their very foundations, windows and doors rattled furiously, furniture shaking, and, in some instances, detached articles slightly removed from their places.

In a very few minutes after the singular phenomenon, though at an hour when one-half the world is wrapped in slumbers, probably two-thirds of our citizens were awake, anxious to define the cause of so novel a sensation. Some. who happened to be up at the time, describe the shock as remarkably severe. The earth evi-dently vibrated distinctly, and seemed to be laboring under some powerful convulsion, either of her internal or external elements. The duration of the shocks was probably half a minute, dying off in a deep-toned, rumbling sound like distant thunder, or the rolling of a heavy car upon the pavement, losing itself in a southerly direction direction.

We have heard of many who were seriously alarmed, in apprehension of a succeeding shock, or pending destructive calamity. With such, night brought no more sleep. One gentleman asserts that he observed a peculiar brilliancy in the heavens immediately prior to this shock, which was soon followed by more than usual gloom and darkness. Another, a sea captain, or sailor, states that he saw an immense meteor. sailor, states that he saw an immense meteor apparently as large as a ship, pass athwart the sky and explode, causing a report like heavy artillery, making all nature tremble. This solution of the mysterious occurrence, however, wants corroboration. The unusual illumination would, if it occurred, have been observed by others. Some, who had the best opportunity of forming an opinion, being awake at the time assert that the earth appeared to rise slightly and then sink, subsequently oscillating to and fro quickly for the space of ten or fifteen sec-

When the shock and noise had ceased, dogs were heard to howl and bark in all directions, a thing which they have always been known to do in earthquake countries, subsequent to one of these throes of nature. Previously the night was unusually sultry and still, and after the shock quite a strong breeze arose. We had supposed it might have been the explosion of a powder mill in our own vicinity, but gentlemen from the region of these mills on the Central Railroad, arrived here, state that the shock was distinctly felt in Baltimore county, and as far as York, Pa., and that the powder mills are unin-We infer, therefore, that the phenomenon of last night might, in all probability, have been the effect of an earthquake at some distant point, probably in some of the West India islands. she had been in habits of intimacy, for time, which will give a satisfactory solution of was presented to her Majesty at an audience, by We shall doubtless have further accounts in due | lard Fillmore, the late President of United States

A party of gentlemen who were out serenading at Franklin square last night when the earthquake occurred felt it distinctly. The vibration was so great as to almost shake down their lamps and instrument stands.

Persons who were on board of vessels in the harbor were very sensibly agitated, causing vessels to rock and chafe considerably.

In all directions it was observed that dogs howled loudly, and the chickens commenced crowing, having been waked from their slum-bers. The mystery still remains unsolved at the hour of our going to press.

The California Nugget of Gold .- A few days ago we announced the arrival at Havre, by the Ariel, of a nugget of native gold, of the value of about 200,000 francs, which was in the hands of two miners, and was to be exhibited at the Universal Exhibition in Paris. We learn to day from Paris that the nugget, instead of being sent to the Exhibition, was presented to the Bank of France, in view of obtaining an advance on its consignment. The bank having assayed it, found that it was a piece of lead covered with gold, upon which the roughness and the uneven ness of native gold had been ingeniously imi-ta'ed. An investigation had been commenced, to discover if the fraud had been committed at the diggings or during the voyage.

General Land Office-Abandoned Military Reservations.-For the benefit of settlers or public lands, we have ascertained that lands which have been reserved for military purposes in the States and Territories, and abandoned in consequence of being no longer needed, are, in conformity with existing laws, subject to the disposal of the War Department, and are not in any way connected with the operations of the General Land office. Consequently, pre-emption claims predicated on settlements made on such lands cannot be admitted. such lands cannot be admitted; and the settler may find, too late to retrieve his misfortune, that he has none of the usual privileges which the pre-emption laws extend to the settler for his

PROGRESS OF THE MEXICAN INSURRECTION. We find in the New York Sun a letter of one of Alvarez's generals, the tone of which is quite exulting in its anticipations of success of the revolutionary cause:

My Good Friend: Zamora, a large city in the State of Michoacan, of about 15,000 inhabitants, is held by our forces under command of Gen. Pueblita.

General Santa Anna is preparing in Morelia an expedition to march against him, which, to judge from the accounts I have received, will prove very unsuccessful to him, as he intends ttacking Zamora with a force of about three thousand and no artillery or cavalry; while on our side the General is very well for ified with one thousand infantry and five pieces of artillery, inside the walls, and two thousand cavalry, under command of the brave and gallant Gen. Huerta, in position on the plains which surround the city.

General Huerta is a very brave soldier, a good cavalry officer, and much feared by the govern-ment troops. He last year with but sixty men captured two full companies of the regiment of AMERICANS AT THE COURT OF ENGLAND.— The London Times, of June 12, says: The Hon. Millard Fillmore, late President of the United States, and suite, have arrived in town and taken apartments at Fenton's Hotel, St. James's street. The Hon. Martin Van Buren and Col. Van Buren have arrived at Long's Hotel, New Bond street, from the United States.

The following presentations to Queen Victoria took place at her Majesty's drawing room, June 14:

By the Countess of Clarendon-Mrs. Abbott La wrence. By the United States Minister-Abbott Law rence, Esq., son of the late Minister to this court; and Henry E. Davies, Esq., private secretary to the Hon. Millard Fillmore.

In the diplomatic circle were, at the same time, Mr. Buchanan, United States Minister; Col. Lawrence, attache to the legation; and the Hon. Millard Fillmore, late President of the United States.

Her Majesty's dinner party in the evening included her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, and their Serene Hignesses the Princess of Hohenlohe and the Princess Adelaide of Hohen-lohe, the Lord Chancellor and Lady Cranworth, Viscount and Viscountess Hardinge, Lady Anna Maria Dawson, the Baroness de Speth, Lord Broughton, Sir Francis and Lady Arabella Baring, Major General Wylde, Col. Lake (Royal Horse Artillery), and Mr. Van Buren, ex-President of the United States.

The dress worn by Mrs. Abbott Lawrence, Jr., was noticed. It consisted of a train of rich pink glace, trimmed with creve of pink and white tulle, tied together with bouquets of mixed azalias; bretelles of Brussels lace; over a white glace petticoat a double skirt of white tulle bouidonnes, over which there was an upper skirt of magnificent Brussels lace, looped with chatelaines of mixed azalias. Head dress,

Brussels lappets, feathers, and jewels.

The London Court Journal of June 15th has

Brussels lappets, feathers, and jewels.

The London Court Journal of June 15th has the following items:

The Queen held a court at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Buckingham Palace. The Hon. Millard Fillmore, the late President of United States, was presented to her Majesty at an audience, by the Earl of Clarendon, the Queen's principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Fillmore was accompanied by Col T. B. Lawrence, attache to the U. S. Legation at the court of Great Britain. that which is now a mystery, wonder, and topic of general conversation.

the Earl of Clarendon, the Queen's principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Mr. of Great Britain.

Her Majesty had a dinner party in the even-ing. The company included her Royal High-ness the Duchess of Kent, her serene Highness the Princess of Hohenlohe, the American Minister Mr. Buchanan, and Miss Lane, the Marquis and Marchioness of Stafford, the Earl and Countess of Clarendon, the Earl of Ellenbor ough, Lady Anna Maria Dawson, Baroness de Speth, Viscount and Viscountess Combermere, the Hon. Millard Fillmore, Sir George Couper, and Sir Jas. Hudson. The presence of an ex-President of the United States at our court is an event which deserves a passing note. Mr. Fillmore looks even a younger man than Mr. Buchanan, the American Minister; his hair is not so white, nor is there any appearance of baldness. As seems apparently about 58, is smaller in stature than the Minister, but with as handsome and intellecual a countenance. It is amusing to see the sang froid with which the former chief of this powerful government is treated by the officers of one of his successors. The republican principle in this matter is no fiction, and the ex-President has really and actually become noth ing more than an American citizen. Mr. Fillmore has, however, been received with much consideration at court, and with great distinction by the Ministers. At the brilliant assem-blies of Viscountess Palmerston and the Coun-tess of Clarendon there is no doubt the ex-President will be the personage of the day.

When presented to Her Majesty, Mr. Fillmore wore a plain full dress suit.

Excursions on the Jeffersonville Rail-ROAD .- Four excursion trains will leave Jeffersonville on the 4th. They will start at 6:15 A. M., 8:45 A. M., 3:30 P. M., and 6:20 P. M. The fare for excursionists is half-price.

We state on the authority of Capt. Sherley that the Lexington had nothing to do with the regular packet boats between this and St. Louis, and that Capt. S. refused to acknowledge her as such.

ANOTHER EXPLOSION .- The boiler in Mr. GALVANIZED IRON REFRIGERATOR, Baldwin's foundery blew up about 6 o'clock this morning, doing considerable damage to the building and machinery. Fortunately there was no one about the establishment at that hour, otherwise it might have caused the loss of many lives. Large and heavy parts of the boiler were carried over the roof of the office, a one-story brick building, and thence across the street. Mr. Baldwin made the fire under the boiler himself, and everything then seemed to be right. Some are under the impression that the explosion was caused by powder.

> The only business before the city court this morning was the disposal of a few cases of drunkenness and a few ordinance warrants.

AFFRAY .- A difficulty occurred on Saturday on board the steamer Tishomingo while she was coming up the river between two of her crew, an Irishman named John Quinn and a negro named George Finley. Finley, it is said, struck the Irishman, when the latter stabbed Finley to the heart, causing instant death. The negro resided in New Albany. Quinn is in jail here.

"That strain again; it hath a dying fall; O, it came o'er my ear like the sweet South That breathes upon a hank of violets, Stealing and giving odor."

Louisville has been justly celebrated for her musical taste and the sweet voices of her fair ones. Her amateur singers have never appeared before the public except upon most earnest solicitations, and then for some charitable purpose; and they never yet have discoursed their sweet music to a thin house, for many persons who do not know Yankee Doodie from Old Hundred would pay the price of a concert ticket merely to look upon a group of fair creatures whose goodness could alone conquer their diffi-

The concert which is to take place to-night has been under preparation for many weeks, and, except the change in the programme, is the same that was enjoyed so much a few evenings since by a large house. EXTENSIVE FORGERIES IN SOUTH CARO-LINA .- The Greenville Patriot of the 14th ult.

Chester, Charlotte, State Bank, and Commercial Chester, Charlotte, State Bank, and Commercial Bank. There is nothing in our State which has equaled this grand fraud for years past; and the most melancholy feature in it is, that it is, like the forgery of Dr. Dodd on the Earl of Chesterfield, by a man of high position on his friends. And no doubt the act was committed under the man of the position of the state of the st And no doubt the act was committed under the same mistaken notion, that if discovered his friends would save him from exposure. The banks will have to lose these large sums, which will be charged to loss and profit.

From New Mexico .- A correspondent of the Missouri Republican, writing from Taos, N. M., May 30, says:

I take up the pen to inform you of the unpre-cedented successes of Cols. Fauntleroy and St. Vrain over the hostile Utah and Apache Indi-

On the 20th of April, Lieut. Col. C. St. Vrain left Fort Massachusetts in command of two companies of volunteers and F company 1st dragoons. Having struck a trail of Apaches at the crossing of the Huerfano, followed it, and on the 25th, came up with the enemy on the Purgatory, in the Raton Mountains, captured their camp, with all its equipage, baggage, &c., killed seven Indians, captured six, and wounded seven. On the morning of the 28th, the command followed a trail of Utahs for 24 miles and halted. Spies and guides being sent out to reconnoitre, returned at 9 o'clock at night. At 10 o'clock the command was in the saddle and off.
Having followed for about 13 miles, came up to the enemy's camp. The mounted were ordered to dismount and hitch their horses; a guard was established over the horses and pack animals and the command prepared for an attack.

At about daybreak, as the command approached the enemy's camp, their dogs gave the alarm; the enemy fired a few shots by way of opening the fire; this was returned with great rapidity by the command. The camp was soon taken the enemy routed. Forty of the enemy were killed, six captured, and a very large number Suicide of Francis C. Stainback .- Considera-Suicide of Francis C. Stainback.—Considerable sensation was caused in our city yesterday morning by a report that F. C. Stainback, Esq., flour inspector of Petersburg, had committed suicide. There were many rumors in regard to the matter during the day, but the facts, as we learn them from a gentleman of Petersburg, are as follows: The dead body of Mr. Stainback was found in a large box in his cellar early yesterday morning. It is perfectly clear that he died by his own hand, having cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor, besides cutting open his ear to ear with a razor, besides cutting open his abdomen and pulling out his bowels. The verdict of the coroner's jury was in accordance with these facts. No cause has been assigned for the deed, for he was perfectly sane. Mr. Stainback leaves a wife and five children.

June 3.—The success of last night was very complete, and the gallantry and steadiness of the troops cannot be too highly spoken of. The French succeeded in securing the works of the Mamelon, and those on its right, called the "Ouvrages Blanes," and in those they took of the groups including eight cohours, and 400 prison. guns, including eight cohorns, and 400 prison-

Nothing could be more brilliant than the adwance of our allies. We have lost about 400 men in killed and wounded. I have just received intelligence of the continued success of Captain Lyons and Captain Sedaiges in the Sea of Azoff. Taganrog, Marioupol, and Genitchi [Gheisk?] have been attacked. The public buildings and unmerous magazines have been burnt, and only one man wounded.

Paris, June 9 .- Geu. Pelissier to the Minister of War.—June, 6, 10 P. M.—To-day, with our allies, we opened fire against the external works, and to-morrow, please God, we will take them.

June 7, P. M.—At 6 30 our signals for assault were given, and one hour afterwards our eagles floated over the Mamelon Vert, and over the two redoubts of Careening Bay. The artillery of the enemy fell into our hands. We are said to the conquered works. On their side our allies, with their usual resolution, carried the works in quarries, and established themselves there. All the troops showed the most admirable devotion and intrepidity.

Vienna, Saturday, June 9 .- The following authentic news has been received here: On the evening of the 7th there was a violent cannon-The French made an assault and took the Mamelon and other advanced works. The success was complete. The affair was exceedingly brilliant.

The Emperor goes to inspect the 3d and Thesday inorning Baron Hess went to Gallicia last 4th divisions of the army on Tuesday morning next. Generals Clauf and Letang remain here. Paris, June 11.—The Moniteur has the fol-wing: The Minister of War received this morning the following telegraphic dispatch, which arrived at Varna on the 8th: "Yesterday evening (7th) we took possession of 62 guns in the captured redoubts. Thirteen officers were the captured redoubts. Thirteen officers were made prisoners. Our loss, which has not yet been accurately ascertained, is considerable, as might be expected from so great a result."

Paris, June 12.—The Moniteur announces that the Minister of War has received a dispatch from Gen. Pelissier, dated Crimea, June 9, 11 P. M., stating the Russians thad abandoned the so-called battery of the 2d of May; they have also completely abandoned the right shore of Careening Bay. The vessels in port have Careening Bay. The vessels in port have sought refuge in Artillery Bay, where our large enorters can reach them. We are watching tiem attentively."

Fienna, June 11 .- Two works close to Malakhoff Tower were taken on the 8th, with 63 guns. The slaughter was fearful.

Admiralty, June 12.—Mr. Osborne presents his compliments to the editor of the Times, and begs to inform him that intelligence has just been received that the Russians have evacuated Anapa, and are supposed to have crossed the Kuban. The Circassians are in the place. We have received the following telegraphic dispatch from our Paris correspondent:

Paris, June 13.—The Moniteur announces at the Minister of War received on the 12.h of June the following dispatch, sent by the Commander-in-Chirf:

June 10 .- The combat of the 7th of June was more advantageous for us than I had at first announced to you. It placed in our hands 502 prisoners, of which number 20 are officers, and 3 pieces of camion.

Sune 11 .- We are consolidating ourselves in the new works. We have been able to fire with the Russian mortars on their ships, which have gone still further off. We are preparing new batteries. The fortress of Anapa was abandon-ed by its garrison on the 5th of June. It is now pied by the Circassians. Russian interests in that quarter are very seriously compromised.

Vienna, June 14.—A dispatch from Varna, dated Wednesday, June 13, says that the French troops have been recalled from Kertch, probably to assist in some great blow against Sebastopol. - Prince Gortschakoff writes on the 9th: The cathenade contunes against the bastions Korni-doff and No. 3. The enemy has asked for an armistice, in order that he may bury his dead. His loss on the 7th exceeded 4,000 men.

In a dispatch previously received, the Ru sian commander writes: "On the 30th, the enemy's ileel, which had attacked Genitchi, set

The Emperor's aide-de camp, Prince Labanoff Rostovsky, then ordered the troops to eiter the city, with the view of extinguishing the fire, and he had hopes to save a portion of the corn, which had been given up as lost. On the 30th Rostovsky, then ordered the troops to enter the city, with the view of extinguishing the fire, and he had hopes to save a portion of the corn, which had been given up as lost. On the 30th the enemy?s steamers approached one of the landing places near Arabat, and set fire to the landing places near Arabat, and set fire to the depots there. A merchant vessel and several coasting vessels were burnt by them. General Wrangel's detachment remains in the same posi- the chief and nine of the band had been arres tion. The enemy has not undertaken anything in the peninsula of Kertch. The French, lost colonels and a general in the assault of the Mamelon and Ca eenage Redoubts Gen. M. the celebrated accoucher (who has had censid erable experience in Queen Victoria's nursery) the Principalities state that the Austrian siege is now extended from Wallachia to Moldavia.

Prince Gortschakoff, dating June 8, thus re-on the assault of the previous evening: "The Allies kept up a very heavy bombard-ment on the 6th and 7th, until 6 o'clock in the evening, when three French divisions advanced and attacked redoubt no. 7. They took the re-doubt on the Mamelon (Kamtschatka) and the two redoubts (Selinghinsk and Volhynia) near Careening Bay, and also a battery between Selinghinsk and bastion no. 1.4

"Our troops retook the Mamelon redoubt, but the French, strongly reinforced, again attacked, the Fiench, strongly reinforced, again attacked, and took it once more. In the end we were masters of the battery (i. e., the one between Selinghinsk and bastion no. 1), the French holding a lodgment from which we hope to repel them. Our troops fought nobly, and the result is that the enemy's loss exceeds our. He has lost 2,500, and we have made 275 men and 7 officers where the construction.

cers prisoners. We have also taken two guns."
The third battery, "between Selighinsk and Bastion No. 1," is that, the omission of which from General Pelissier's despatch was pointed out in the Daily News on Monday last. The reason of that omission is now explained; the work was not at the time in the possession of our Allies, but it appears in General Pellissier's despatch of the 9th—a date one day later than Prince Gortchakoff's communication—as the battery of May 2," having then been aban doned by the Russians.

Description of the Captured Places.—The Mamelon Vert, which has just been taken by the French, is to the eat, in front of the Malacket. lakoff Tower, or, more properly speaking, of the large Malakoff Battery. It commands the Careening Port, the military buildings belonging to it, and the communication by which the garrison of Sebastopol is constantly receiving reinforcements from the army outside. The occupation of this Mamelon, moreover, deprives the M lakoff Tower of the support which it received on the eastern side, and which considerably annoyed the French works. The capture of this position, in which the French have established themselves, cannot fail to have very immediate consequences on the fate of the great Malakoff Battery, on which, in the opinion of military men, the destiny of all the southern part of Sebastopol depends. The post which the English have taken possession of, and in which they have established themselves, is not very clearly indicated on the maps of the place; but in looking at the plans in relief, it will be seen that it is nearly on the same line as the Mamelon Vert. The occupation of it will therefore permit the English to combine with the French in an attack on the great Malakoff Battery, the fall of which is now considered not far distant.

Heights of the Tchernaya.—The French lines are now so far advanced that the allied cavalry water their horses in the Tchernaya without molestation. The Russians do not show inforce. They have constructed two batteries, one towards the bridge, the other on one of the spurs running out from the ridge of Inkermann. On the allied side a work has been constructed for the defence of the bridge. Access to the bridge certainly secures water, but the position is dscribed, in correspondence from the camp, as "more advantageous in a moral than strategetical point of view."

Before Sebastofol, June 26.

My Lord: The reports which have been received from Kertch are of the most satisfactory character.

Five vessels laden with corn had come into Kertch, in ignorance of the capture of the place, and had fallen into the hands of the Al-ies.

The French and English squadron had appeared before Berdiansk, and the enemy, in con-sequence, destroyed four of their war steamers, and considerable depots of corn.

They then exchanged a cannonade with the Russian forts at Arabat, and were so fortunate as to blow up a magazine with shells; and since Capt. Lyons, R. N., of the Miranda, has performed a most successful operation upon Genitchi, driving the troops out of the town, and destroying all the stores and shipping.

This brilliant and decisive success marks the resolution and daring of Capt. Lyons, and fortunately was accomplished with no other loss than that of one man wounded.

Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons states that in no longer a period than four days a squadron has destroyed 241 vessels, employed exclusively in transporting provisions to the Crimea, besides four war steamers, and six millions of flour and corn. RAGLAN.
Other dispatches are to hand from the officers commanding the various ships that took part in the actions, and in a letter from Admiral Lyons the following important passage occurs: "Sir Geo. Brown confidently expects that, by the 7th inst., Yenikale will be in such a state of defense as fully to justify his leaving it in the charge of the Ottoman troops now there, under command of Hadji Reschid Pacha, and that the British and French forces will be at liberty proceed to the attack of Anapa and Soudjak Kaleh, in order to drive the enemy out of his last holds on the coast of Circassia"

The Baltic Fleet .- On the 8th June, the English fleet, consisting of sixteen line-of-battle ships, including three French, was anchored close to Cronstadt, and forming a line across the bay, from shore to shore. Admiral Dunda's had gone in very close with the surveying steamer Merlin, and afterwards with a boat, but was not molested by the Russians. All the ships in Cronstadt were dressed in their colors, from which it was inferred that the citizens were celebrating either a fete day or the visit of some distinguished person.

Admiral Bayne's (English) squadron, numbering 15 sail, anchored in the Great Belt on the 13th inst.

A letter dated Elsinore, May 24, says: On the day before yesterday, 12 new prizes, taken by Adm ral Dundas's squadron, cast anchor at Elsinore, accompanied by the Geyser convette, taking them to England. Among these prizes seven were sailing under Mecklencolors, four under the Danish flag and one
